

Hall Witnesses Grilled On Finding of Bodies

ent when Undertaker Hubbard and two gentlemen came to the ground.

Q. Did he (Hubbard) mention any names? A. I think so.

Q. Did he say the name of Stevens? A. That's the name.

Q. Do you remember him saying, "That's them, or that's his, or words to that effect?" A. It was along that line.

Q. Do you remember Stevens walking around the bodies? A. No.

Saw No One Else

Q. Do you see any one else in the courtroom now whose name you don't know who was present that day? A. No.

Q. Would you remember if I refreshed your memory by reading the statement you made to me at police headquarters? A. Yes.

McCarte stood up as the prosecutor started to read the testimony taken from the county physician at the investigation in the state police headquarters near Somerville last week. His objection was overruled.

Course of Bullet

Dr. Long said it was soon after 10.30 a. m. when he left Somerville to go to the murder scene. He said that he found the bullet which killed Dr. Hall had entered behind the left ear and had come out at the right temple. Dr. E. I. Cronk had testified the bullet took the opposite course. The bodies were a foot apart and the arms were extended, he said.

Dr. Long said he issued death certificates and gave them to E. L. Sutphin, a New Brunswick undertaker, so the bodies might be removed from Somerset into Middlesex county. He has no copy of these certificates, he said.

"The bodies had certainly been disturbed," Dr. Long said. "No two people could have been shot in that position."

Schneider Called

Schneider, the youth who found the bodies, was next called. He testified that he met Pearl Bahmer between 7.30 and 1 a. m. that day, by appointment, at College Avenue and Hamilton Street, New Brunswick, and that they walked to Buccleugh Park and then up to Easton Avenue and the Phillips farm, a distance of about two miles. It took them about an hour, he said.

He said they saw the bodies lying twelve or fifteen feet from a crabapple tree on the Phillips farm.

Simpson showed him a photograph of the murder scene, in which two burlap bags had been placed on the ground, but Schneider said this was not a true representation of the situation, because the bodies were not in that position.

A hat was over the face of Dr. Hall, and a scarf was on the face of Mrs. Mills, he said.

Walked Away

When they discovered the bodies, they walked away and returned within five or ten minutes, Schneider said. The clothing on either body was disordered, but papers lay scattered between the bodies.

Police Open Drive On Chicago Gangs

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (By U. P.).—Nine police lieutenants reported to Chief of Detectives Schoemaker here today to take charge of special squads in Chicago's drive to rid the city of bootleg gangsters.

In addition, twenty detective bureau squads were to be transferred to outlying stations. Six squads were ordered into the Maxwell Street district, known as "Moonshine Valley," while six others were shifted to the Chicago Lawn Area, a similar territory overrun by rival beer factions.

He said he saw blood on the man's face, and concluded both were dead. This was some time between 9 and 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Schneider said that he and Pearl then went to the Stryker home to notify the police, and remained there until police came. Schneider said that when Detective Totten arrived the bodies were in the same position as when he found them. Attorney Pfeiffer then questioned Schneider as to his statement, made four years ago, that he had been at the murder scene that Thursday night.

Perjury Recalled

Schneider at that time accused Clifford Hayes of having committed the double murder.

"That was a false statement," he said.

In reply to further questions he said he saw no letters or calling cards. "I saw a small piece of watch chain on the man," he said. He said he waited only a few seconds before going to the Stryker home to notify the police.

An adjournment was taken at this point.

Offers to Confess in Killing Of Mellett if Given 'Dope'

CLEVELAND, Aug. 17 (By U. P.).—Louis Maser, Canton man charged with the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton, O., publisher, is ready to "spill everything" to satisfy his appetite for narcotics, it was reported today from the county jail where he is held.

"Give me one pill and I'll spill everything," Maser pleaded after a night of confinement, it was said by one of his jailers, a deputy sheriff.

County jail authorities refused the prisoner drugs.

In another cell at the county jail was Maser's associate, Carl Studer, charged by Federal agents with liquor law violation and held in default of bond. He will remain here unless bail is forthcoming, but Maser will be returned to Canton.

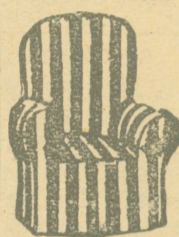

Steve Kascholk, held in jail for reported the star witness against fear of an attempt on his life, is Maser. He is reported to have told police that Maser offered him, together with Pat McDermott, now a fugitive from justice, a large sum to kill the young vice crusader.
